

UPDATES IN 4.0

We've made a couple of updates that we think you'll like. Similar to our visa cases, when you start a global assessment we'll ask for some initial details and you'll then be presented with a travel questionnaire. Upon completion of the questionnaire, a preliminary assessment is created and saved for that employee. This means you can return at a later time to edit the assessment or send for expert review. Global assessment is accessed by clicking the Global Deployment tile on the homepage.

This tool helps you maintain and manage a global workforce. Create travel assessments to see the most likely visa/permit for a business trip. Then, have an expert review to determine the exact visa/permit needed for the destination country.

GLOBAL WORKFORCE

The Global Deployment page shows employees currently available or in the process of becoming available to staff up a global project.

The world map highlights the various countries of travel, and clicking a country filters the table to only show data for that country.

The table shows those employees who are in the assessment process, have a global case in progress, or have a current visa/permit allowing them to work internationally.

GLOBAL ASSESSMENT

A global assessment lets you know the appropriate visa or work permit for your employee to work internationally. Clicking the New Travel Assessment button starts the process by first choosing a traveler or selecting traveler unknown and then filling out a travel questionnaire.

Once the questionnaire is completed, a preliminary assessment is displayed. For several common destinations, the results will show the most likely work permit or visa for that country of travel.

Until the assessment is sent for expert review, travel information can be modified via the questionnaire tab. Any modifications will automatically update the preliminary assessment.

Upon receipt of the assessment, the Global Team will review the information and return their recommendation. Once received, a global visa case can then be opened. If the Global Team recommendation is older than 60 days, however, you'll need to create a new travel assessment for that employee.

★ Most Likely Visa/Permit

Based on your questionnaire, we found this to be the most likely visa for your travel. However, it is important to note that THIS IS NOT A LEGAL OPINION. You can edit the questionnaire to see how it affects your possibilities or submit assessment for expert review if you want to open a global case.

Canada - Intra-Company Transfer Work Permit

This permit is for foreign nationals who come to work for a Canadian branch of their current employer. Foreign companies with Canadian affiliates can bring executives, senior managers, and employees with specialized knowledge to work. Applicants must have worked on an ongoing basis for at least one year in the last three years for the same or a related employer. This Work Permit requires an LMA. ICT permits are generally issued in 2-3 year increments with the option to extend.

Average government processing time: 4-6 weeks*

Price: $1,800 (Excludes government filing and ancillary fees)

Want to open a case?

Submit your assessment for review by the Envoy Global Team and receive a response in 1-3 business days.

If this results in a case opened through Envoy, you will not be charged for the review. However, if you do not open a case, your company will be billed an additional service charge.

(The documents in the Additional Info section of the questionnaire are not required but will assist the Global Team in their expert review.)
